Technical Difficulties: March 9th Update

On March 8th, Jasper from ITMerrit was able to install a new firewall, allowing the Library to properly filter out any inappropriate or unsafe content in compliance with the Children's Internet Protection Act (CIPA). By adhering to CIPA, Library internet is funded completely by the state of Oklahoma, allowing the Hennessey community access to free internet and Wi-Fi. As of March 9th, the Library will resume providing Internet and Wifi services to the community.

Sequoyah Book Award: 2022 Winners and 2023 Masterlist

The 2022 Sequoyah Book Awards were presented this month. The winners included: Zeus: Dog of Chaos by Kristin Tubb won Children's, When Stars are Scattered by Vistoria Jamieson and Omar Mohamed won Intermediate, and Legendborn (Book 1) by Tracy Deonn won High School. These books were read and voted on by Oklahoma youth and are available for check out! Also check out the nominees for the 2023 Sequoyah award, carefully selected by a committee of Oklahoma teachers and librarians.

Time for Change: Some Rearranging

Spring is incoming and the urge for change is in the Library! Thanks to some help from Town workmen, the shelving and furniture have been rearranged in the Adult Fiction room to allow front-to-back view of the room. With the reduction in magazine subscriptions, the shelving was downsized to accommodate the seating area. A new rug and lamp with USB charging ports were also added to the room.

With the return of internet and wifi accessibility to the public, the computers have been rearranged as well. The Public computers and printers have moved to the hallway, near the children's room. Jennie, the Children's Librarian, moved her work area to the previous computer space, joining with the Circulation workspace and Director's office. This new proximity will promote better collaboration and workflow for the staff.
